

Family Promise of Tualatin Valley (FPTV) believes that if a student can stay with their family, in their own school, in their own routine, in their own community, they – and their families – can succeed.

FPTV is a non-profit organization that serves families experiencing homelessness or are near to homelessness. Individual family plans are developed with our FPTV case manager to help families identify and connect with services specific to their needs with housing being the first priority. We provide emergency shelter, diversion and stabilization services, as well as case management services to support families with connection to local resources.

If you or someone you know needs assistance please call Community Action, 503-640-3263, to receive a Community Connect assessment and then our office, 503-427-2768, for additional support.
